

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for labeling a membrane-localized protein by introducing a biotin target
5 sequence tag into at least one loop domain of a membrane-localized protein. The method of the invention is useful for labeling an ion channel protein such as CFTR or mutants thereof. A method for identifying an agent which corrects protein misfolding of a membrane-localized protein is also 10 provided.